

Global Outreach Partner David and Nicole Hannah

It was in the midst of their careers that God began to give David and Nicole a sense of His grand plan for their lives. In the summer of 2006, God placed a burden on their hearts for the people of Italy, which they thought odd having never been there before. After months of prayer, God confirmed His desire for them to go to Italy and teach the people what it means to have a relationship with a living Savior.

God has led David and Nicole to the University of Bologna to begin a campus ministry. Their vision is to see a revival on the campus and to watch the students that come from all over Italy seeking knowledge take the love of Christ back with them as they start their careers and families.

Bologna, Italy is a city of about 500,000 people half way between Venice and Florence. Despite gorgeous cathedrals and religious artwork that seem to be on every corner, less than 1% of Bolognese believe Jesus is the way to heaven.

The Hannah family is serving in Italy through the mission organization, TEAM: The Evangelical Alliance Mission. TEAM helps local churches send missionaries to establish other churches. Then they help those churches send more, so that God will be glorified. They have done this for over a century.
